Re: [REDACTED]

Dear Mr. Marrero,

It was again a pleasure to see you today. This is a follow-up regarding my evaluation of these individuals with regard to treatment that was rendered during a period from May 22, 1998 and December 30, 2000. As you are aware having been present, an extensive interview and interrogation of these individuals regarding their medical history and proposed podiatric care during this period was entertained. This was correlated to the billing that was provided by the practitioner. Without question there is considerable inconsistency and contradiction regarding proposed and billed treatment.

Review of the practitioner's medical records do not support the performance of several procedures to include excision of lesions, wound repair and wound debridement. Further physical examination of the patients does not demonstrate clinical evidence supporting these treatments. There is no evidence of prior wound formation which would be suggested by residual cicatrix or discoloration. Subjectively also the patients never related history of any type of wound to include diabetic. This would also contradict the billed procedure for a repair of wound. Further the patients never note history of any type of peripheral injection for purpose of anesthesia having been given. Finally in review of [REDACTED] medical history I would suggest that any type of invasive procedure that was performed or may have been performed on this individual would most likely would have had devastating consequences given his severe peripheral vascular disease. He demonstrates no ability to support any type of invasive procedure without potential for harm.

From a medical documentation and billing standpoint I find it quite significant and odd that the exact procedures were essentially performed on all individuals at every home visit. Further upon questioning of the patients it is again noted that this practitioner requested signatures for open consent forms in duplicate.

Without question there is evidence of duplicity and fraud in the management and billing of these individuals.

If I can provide you with any further information, please not hesitate to contact my office.

Sincerely,
